Former bank teller arrested

Monday, April 19, 2010
Another former bank teller has been arrested for diverting customer funds into her private bank account, said Sheriff Steve Prator.

Stephanie King, 21, of the 8300 block of Dixie-Blanchard Road, was booked into the Caddo Correctional Center for bank fraud following an investigation by Sheriff's Detective Bobby Herring.

King is accused of diverting funds from customer accounts and electronically depositing the funds into her own bank account. King took money from five separate accounts with an aggregate amount of $3,000.

In March, Herring arrested a former teller at a local credit union for making unauthorized withdrawals from customers' accounts.